Headline:
Heavy rain at times over the weekend, improving next week.

Today:
Drier at first in the southeast, but otherwise cloudy with long periods of rain, which will be heavy at times. Rain turning showery through the afternoon, perhaps thundery in places. Light winds, with fog over the hills. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Heavy perhaps thundery showery rain will slowly move away eastwards through the evening, although perhaps lingering in northeastern areas overnight. Staying cloudy for all. Light winds. Minimum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Sunday:
Sunday will be mostly cloudy. Some scattered showers developing, perhaps with the odd heavy shower in the afternoon. Possibly some sunny spells later in eastern areas. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Generally drier and brighter from Monday, with light winds. There will be warm sunny spells, although some coastal low cloud and mist may spread inland during the overnight periods.
